Description

Use this section to share details with us.

There are several confirmed reports that Greta Thunberg (a foreigner) is coming the Alberta prior to the General Election of Oct. 21st in an obvious attempt to influence people to not vote Conservative and vote for parties whose primary focus is "reducing climate change". Any attempt by here to make political statements should be taken very seriously and investigated thoroughly.

Our File # 2019-1252

Dear [REDACTED]:

Thank you for your correspondence dated October 14, 2019, concerning the participation of Greta Thunberg at events in Canada promoting action on climate change that occurred during the election period for the 43rd general election.

The Commissioner of Canada Elections (Commissioner) is responsible for ensuring that the Canada Elections Act (the Act) is complied with and enforced.

Foreign interference in the Canadian electoral process can pose a serious threat to our democracy. With the adoption of Bill C-76 in December 2018, Parliament amended the Act to better clarify what type of foreign interference it considered to be harmful to our democracy. Section 282.4 of the Act now identifies two circumstances where attempts by a foreign person or entity to influence electors' electoral choices are "undue influence", and as such, prohibited under the Act. The first of these is when the foreign person or entity knowingly incurs an expense to directly promote or oppose a candidate or a registered party in the election. The second circumstance is where one of the things done to influence electors by the person or entity is an offence under any Canadian statute or regulation (be they federal or provincial).

Moreover, in adopting section 282.4, Parliament identified certain circumstances that do not constitute "undue influence" for the purposes of the new prohibition. These include:

- expressing an opinion about the outcome or desired outcome of the election, or making a statement encouraging electors to vote or not to vote for a candidate or a registered party in the election, if no expense is incurred in doing so; and
- the transmission through broadcasting or through electronic or print media, of an editorial, speech, interview, column, letter, commentary or news, regardless of any expense incurred in doing so.

In light of the above, we have reviewed the information you provided and concluded that the circumstances as described do not contravene any provision of the Act. As such, the matter cannot be pursued by our Office.

Thank you for your interest in the electoral process. For more information about the Office of the Commissioner of Canada Elections, please visit our website at: www.cef-cce.ca.

Yours truly,

RECOMMENDATION REPORT

Background/Issue:

On 2019-10-14, OCCE received the first of several complaints pertaining to Greta Thunberg, a Swedish national who does not reside in Canada, travelling to Canada to speak at climate change rallies. The complaints allege foreign interference.

On September 27, 2019, during the 43rd GE pre-election period, Thunberg spoke in Montreal at UN sponsored event and met with PM Trudeau.

During the 43rd GE election period, Thunberg spoke at an Edmonton climate strike on October 18, 2019.

Post 43rd GE, Thunberg spoke at a Vancouver climate strike on October 25, 2019. This event is outside the scope of the Act.

Rallies that only take a position on an issue, without identifying a political actor are not regulated by the Act.

The investigator located open sourced copies of the speeches delivered by Thunberg, and reviewed them. The speeches were climate change centric and referenced world leaders, without identifying any political actors.

There is no violation of the Act

Person(s)/Entity(ies) of interest:

- Greta Thunberg, English, Climate change activist, English
- Various complainants, English

Recommendation:

- No violation of the Act
- Draft reply on file
- Files 2019-1252-13 and 2019-1252-14 require coordinated response with 2019-1329 Masterfile - Obama
- Conclude each occurrence once complainants are advised.

The Liberal Party and Justin Trudeau are allowing the most famous climate alarmist/activist to stage an incendiary rally in the heart of oil and gas country 3 days before Election Day, knowing that it will sway votes toward the Liberal Party. The Liberals and Justin Trudeau are allowing foreign interference with our election by allowing/inviting a foreign actor into the country during the height of pre-election to campaign for one of their party's key platforms. The subject of Thunberg's campaign (Climate Change), the overwhelming reach of her influence and fame, and the timing (as she could have participated on "Fridays for Future" any week following Election Day), show that this stunt is absolutely election fraud and meddling by foreign parties.

Climate activist Greta Thunberg of Sweden is being sponsored by foreign entities to promote and encourage the elimination of the Canadian energy industry. This is a clear case of foreign entities interfering with a Canadian election. She showed up in downtown Calgary on Wednesday and is planning to join a climate strike at the Alberta Legislature in Edmonton on Friday.

Description

Use this section to share details with us.

I am writing to inquire about a possible case of Foreign Inference during the 43rd Canadian Election. This interference is one that is between Liberal Member of Parliament, and Prime Minister Justin Trudeau and Climate Activist, Greta Thunberg.

On Friday, September 27th, 2019, Greta Thunberg came to Montreal, Quebec, and met with Mr. Trudeau. There was a discussion on climate – and the “climate crisis” and lack of action Canada and Mr. Trudeau is taking.

Should this meeting have taken place during a formal United Nations meeting or outside the election period, it would not be an issue; however, given that this is a policy that all major parties have a difference in opinion with our current Prime Minister, this meeting should not have occurred. Ms. Thunberg is an activist; her followings and actions are shaping the world platform. The United Nations have invited her and listened to her – it is because of her role and influence, Mr. Trudeau should not have had a televised and open meeting.

Has Ms. Thurnberg registered as a third party?

This interaction is one that changes and shifts the focus of the Canadian election.

My [REDACTED] and I have reached out to our local Elections Canada office – to which this particular scenario has not occurred before.

I am writing to see if Mr. Trudeau knowingly allowed for and engaged in political and foreign interference.

Our File # 2019-1252-6

Dear [REDACTED]:

Thank you for your correspondence dated October 18, 2019, concerning the participation of Greta Thunberg at events in Canada promoting action on climate change that occurred during the election period for the 43rd general election.

The Commissioner of Canada Elections (Commissioner) is responsible for ensuring that the Canada Elections Act (the Act) is complied with and enforced.

Foreign interference in the Canadian electoral process can pose a serious threat to our democracy. With the adoption of Bill C-76 in December 2018, Parliament amended the Act to better clarify what type of foreign interference it considered to be harmful to our democracy. Section 282.4 of the Act now identifies two circumstances where attempts by a foreign person or entity to influence electors' electoral choices are "undue influence", and as such, prohibited under the Act. The first of these is when the foreign person or entity knowingly incurs an expense to directly promote or oppose a candidate or a registered party in the election. The second circumstance is where one of the things done to influence electors by the person or entity is an offence under any Canadian statute or regulation (be they federal or provincial).

Moreover, in adopting section 282.4, Parliament identified certain circumstances that do not constitute "undue influence" for the purposes of the new prohibition. These include:

- expressing an opinion about the outcome or desired outcome of the election, or making a statement encouraging electors to vote or not to vote for a candidate or a registered party in the election, if no expense is incurred in doing so; and
- the transmission through broadcasting or through electronic or print media, of an editorial, speech, interview, column, letter, commentary or news, regardless of any expense incurred in doing so.

In light of the above, we have reviewed the information you provided and concluded that the circumstances as described do not contravene any provision of the Act. As such, the matter cannot be pursued by our Office.

Thank you for your interest in the electoral process. For more information about the Office of the Commissioner of Canada Elections, please visit our website at: www.cef-cce.ca.

My concern is with the foreign influence Greta Thunberg and her guardians have had on the current election. After reading 331 of the Canada Elections Act and considering the timing of the Climate Rally in Edmonton, and the fact that this issue to which she is speaking is a key election issue, I believe that Greta's speech is having influence on how people vote on October 21st.

Dear [REDACTED]

Thank you for your correspondence dated October 28, 2019, concerning the participation of Greta Thunberg at events in Canada promoting action on climate change and a tweet from Barack Obama endorsing Justin Trudeau during the election period for the 43rd general election.

The Commissioner of Canada Elections (Commissioner) is responsible for ensuring that the Canada Elections Act (the Act) is complied with and enforced.

Foreign interference in the Canadian electoral process can pose a serious threat to our democracy. With the adoption of Bill C-76 in December 2018, Parliament amended the Act to better clarify what type of foreign interference it considered to be harmful to our democracy. Section 282.4 of the Act now identifies two circumstances where attempts by a foreign person or entity to influence electors' electoral choices are "undue influence", and as such, prohibited under the Act. The first of these is when the foreign person or entity knowingly incurs an expense to directly promote or oppose a candidate or a registered party in the election. The second circumstance is where one of the things done to influence electors by the person or entity is an offence under any Canadian statute or regulation (be they federal or provincial).

Moreover, in adopting section 282.4, Parliament identified certain circumstances that do not constitute "undue influence" for the purposes of the new prohibition. These include:

- expressing an opinion about the outcome or desired outcome of the election, or making a statement encouraging electors to vote or not to vote for a candidate or a registered party in the election, if no expense is incurred in doing so; and
- the transmission through broadcasting or through electronic or print media, of an editorial, speech, interview, column, letter, commentary or news, regardless of any expense incurred in doing so.

In light of the above, we have reviewed the information you provided and concluded that the circumstances as described do not contravene any provision of the Act. As such, the matter cannot be pursued by our Office.

The visit by Greta and meeting with her by Justin Trudeau in Montreal constitutes foreign interference as expenses were incurred by Greta and by Justin Trudeau to go meet with her. His travel and other expenses to meet her were still being financed by the Canadian taxpayers as he did so on or about period Sep 27 to Sep 29, 2019. News reports clearly prove that he allowed foreign interference

COMMISSAIRE AUX ÉLECTIONS FÉDÉRALES

COMMISSIONER OF CANADA ELECTIONS

January 17, 2020

Our File # 2019-1252-17

Dear [REDACTED]:

Thank you for your correspondence dated November 9, 2019, concerning the participation of Greta Thunberg at events in Canada promoting action on climate change that occurred during the election period for the 43rd general election.

The Commissioner of Canada Elections (Commissioner) is responsible for ensuring that the Canada Elections Act (the Act) is complied with and enforced.

Foreign interference in the Canadian electoral process can pose a serious threat to our democracy. With the adoption of Bill C-76 in December 2018, Parliament amended the Act to better clarify what type of foreign interference it considered to be harmful to our democracy. Section 282.4 of the Act now identifies two circumstances where attempts by a foreign person or entity to influence electors' electoral choices are "undue influence", and as such, prohibited under the Act. The first of these is when the foreign person or entity knowingly incurs an expense to directly promote or oppose a candidate or a registered party in the election. The second circumstance is where one of the things done to influence electors by the person or entity is an offence under any Canadian statute or regulation (be they federal or provincial).

Moreover, in adopting section 282.4, Parliament identified certain circumstances that do not constitute "undue influence" for the purposes of the new prohibition. These include:

- expressing an opinion about the outcome or desired outcome of the election, or making a statement encouraging electors to vote or not to vote for a candidate or a registered party in the election, if no expense is incurred in doing so; and
- the transmission through broadcasting or through electronic or print media, of an editorial, speech, interview, column, letter, commentary or news, regardless of any expense incurred in doing so.

In light of the above, we have reviewed the information you provided and concluded that the circumstances as described do not contravene any provision of the Act. As such, the matter cannot be pursued by our Office.

Thank you for your interest in the electoral process. For more information about the Office of the Commissioner of Canada Elections, please visit our website at: www.cef-cce.ca.

Description

Use this section to share details with us.

Greta Thunberg, a Swedish citizen, came to Canada during our election period to campaign on an election issue - climate change. Our various federal parties held different positions on actions related to climate change, including the carbon tax, building the pipeline, the Paris Accord, etc.

This was not merely a matter of her publishing an article with her opinion. Huge money was spent for her and her team to travel around Canada campaigning, during our election.
